

Lt. McDonough Air Corps Pilot Dies In Italy

First Lieutenant Francis J. McDonough, '42, USAAF, was killed in action in Italy when the Flying Fortress he was piloting was forced down behind the German lines by anti-aircraft fire.

The Lieutenant was listed as missing in action late last year. Official confirmation of his death was recently received by his parents.

Graduated In 1942

"Frannie," as he was familiarly known, entered the Army Air Corps two months before his graduation. He was given permission to fly to Baltimore to receive his degree at the Commencement Exercises on Sunday, June 7, 1942.

After receiving his primary training at Maxwell Field, Alabama, he was transferred to Blytheville, Arkansas, where he received his wings.

Forty-Four Missions

He went overseas in the summer of 1943, and at the time of his death had completed forty-four missions. For his heroism in bombing expeditions in Sicily and Italy, he was awarded the Air Medal, and Oak Leaf Clusters.

Lt. McDonough was a member of the Sodality and the English Academy. He was elected Treasurer of the Academy of Accounting and Commerce in his senior year, and was vice-president of his class. His athletic proficiency deserves special treatment and will be related on page seven of this issue.

A public Mass of Requiem for the repose of his soul was offered at St. Elizabeth's Church. Plans were completed and a Special Mass was offered in the Students Chapel at Evergreen.

Meyer Assumes Plunkett's Post As Greyhound Editor-in-Chief

The Rev. Paul J. Gibbons, S. J., Moderator of THE GREYHOUND, announced the appointment of William A. Meyer, Jr., as Editor-in-Chief, to replace the post formerly held by John H. Plunkett, now in the Army.

Meyer is the twenty-first Editor of the publication. He joined the staff in August, 1943, as a member of the Sports Department, and was chosen Sports Editor in January, 1944. He held this post for ten months, until this recent appointment as Editor-in-Chief.

During his career at Loyola the new editor has been prominent in various activities. He is secretary of the Student Council, edits the Student Council News, and is Vice-Prefect of the Sodality.

Several other changes have also been made in the staff necessitated by the induction of some of the staff members into the armed forces.

Frank Cashen, former Rewrite Editor of THE GREYHOUND, was

Faith In The Savior

In the midst of the strident engines of war, detonating bombs, flying steel and shrapnel, with the begrimed faces of our men grim in their determination to end this bloody conflict, Christmas of 1944 presents once more the picture of the Babe of Bethlehem, Who is Christ the Lord.

Only a strong faith in the messianic mission of Christ, in His Love and Mercy to save mankind, can strengthen all believing hearts, torn asunder with the pain and agony of this awful holocaust.

"If thou didst know the gift of God", said our Lord at the well of Jacob to the Samaritan woman, "and Who it is Who says to thee: 'give me to drink,' thou wouldst ask of Him and He would have given thee living water." Faith in Christ as the Savior of the human race alone can bring healing to our wounds, solace to our suffering, peace in our pain, and victory to our hope.

That our students, their parents, our alumni and our friends may share abundantly this vision of Faith is the sincere wish of the Faculty of Loyola College at this Christmas Time.

Francis Dailey Dies In Service

Sgt. Francis J. Dailey, Jr., ex. '45, was reported killed in action in the European theatre of war last week. This nineteenth alumnus to pay the supreme sacrifice is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Dailey of 4610 Rokeby Road.

Sgt. Dailey entered Loyola College in 1942 and was elected the treasurer of the Freshman Class. He entered the service on March 4, 1943. A more complete summary of his life will be given in the January issue of THE GREYHOUND.

The elections for the President of the Student Body and the President of the Athletic Association will be held in the college on December 20.

The students will cast their ballots during the first two morning periods, and the victors will be formally inaugurated into their respective offices that same afternoon by the Very Rev. President Edward B. Bunn, S. J.

Take Oath Of Office

Before the entire student body, the two successful candidates will solemnly take the oath of office, while placing their hands upon the Charter of Loyola College. Their tenure of office will continue for one academic year.

In order to be nominated, each candidate must secure twenty-five signatures of students, attesting to the fact that he is worthy of the office.

Contestants Listed

Laurence P. Molloy is the lone applicant for President of the Student Body, while William S. Hodges, Charles C. Meagher, and Louis Franz are battling to lead the Athletic Association. All of these candidates were officially declared eligible to run for office at the Student Council meeting last Tuesday.

Donald Giblin has been President of the Student Body, and Tim Parr, President of the Athletic Association. An unusual feature of the present campaign is the unopposed candidacy of Laurence P. Molloy as candidate for President of the Student Body.

The President of the Student Body is also the President of the Student Council, while the head of the Athletic Association represents the Block L Club in the Student Council.

At present the candidates for the offices are polishing off their campaign speeches which will be delivered at the rally next Monday during the lunch period.

Special Jesuit Choir Sings Yuletide Carols

The faculty and students of Loyola College will present the annual Christmas entertainment for all the parents and friends of the students of Loyola on Sunday, December 17, at 3:30 P. M. The entertainment will take place in the College Library.

Woodstock Choir

The program will consist of Christmas carols by the choir from Woodstock College, Maryland; of violin solos and string quartets; and of a Christmas monologue by Robert Longley, President of the Masque and Rapier Dramatic Society. The Very Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S. J., Rector of Loyola College, will deliver the Christmas speech of welcome.

College Men Make Retreat

The Rev. Ferdinand Schoberg, S. J., conducted the annual student retreat at Evergreen on December 6, 7 and 8. The retreat was held in the college chapel. The retreat master was on hand for consultation and confession during the recess periods, as well as the periods assigned.

Father Schoberg was assisted by the priests of the faculty who met with students for private conferences. Father Schoberg, who is now attached to the Mission Band, formerly taught at Loyola.

Senior Retreat

The senior retreat was conducted, as in former years, at Manresa-on-the-Severn. However, it did not coincide with the student retreat, but extended over a three day period, from December 1-3. The Rev. Thomas J. Higgins, S. J., of Loyola was the retreat master.

While the Catholic students attended the regular exercises, the non-Catholic undergraduates heard a series of lectures by the Very Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S. J., President of Loyola, and the Rev. John J. Brady, S. J. The subject of Father Bunn's lecture was "The Philosophy of Life"; Father Brady talked on the Ten Commandments. The schedule was arranged to include three talks a day.

Retreat Necessary

In regard to the retreat, Father Higgins stated, "These are the most important days of college. All year round we are occupied with the minor issues of life. Retreat shows us how to put things first. God is first, and there is no second."

Baldwin Reported Missing In Action

William L. Baldwin, Jr., ex. '44, has been reported missing in action by the War Department. The announcement came just as THE GREYHOUND was about to go to press.

Bill was at Loyola only a year and a half before his induction. While here he performed excellently for the Debating Society, and also played intramural basketball, softball, tennis, and was on the intramural track team.

Before coming to Loyola College, Bill was a student at Loyola High School. He was among the first fifth of his class while there, and was graduated in the spring of 1941.

This party, a traditional affair, has been planned so as to ensure the most enjoyment. Invitations have been sent to the parents, and there will be programs listing the various renditions by the choir.

Student Council Ushers

In addition, refreshments will be served by the members of the Student Council, who will also act as ushers and as members of the Reception Committee.

Rev. Mr. Victor R. Yanitelli, S. J., Director of the Woodstock Choir, will bring to Evergreen forty-one priests and scholastics of the Society of Jesus as members of the Chorus and Soloists. These men have a selection of Christmas carols, both traditional and original, in their repertoire.

Favorite Christmas Carols

The carols include such favorite melodies as "Gesu Bambino," "Dear Little One," "Calm Was the Hallowed Night," "Silent Night," and "Adeste Fideles." There are others which are listed in the complete program on page three.

Aside from the Chorus, five Soloists will give special renditions. They are the Rev. John Hochban, S. J., Mr. Charles Dolan, S. J., Mr. Cyril Schommer, S. J., Mr. Edward Stephenson, S. J., and Mr. Rudolph Doering, S. J.

Experienced Soloists

All have had wide experience in the musical field. Father Hochban, (Continued on page 3, Col. 1)

Contributions Complete Fund

The Rev. Paul J. Gibbons, S. J., recently announced that the campaign to raise $800.00 for The Greyhound Scholarship Fund was completed.

The drive which was started more than a year ago, aimed at securing the sum of $800.00 to pay for a scholarship for some needy student. With the last donation, arriving early this month, the drive ended most successfully.

Alumni Main Contributors

Since its inception this venture has been supported wholeheartedly by the Alumni of the College. They have responded with consistent and large donations, which helped THE GREYHOUND to realize its required goal.

In this initial undertaking of its kind, and considering the support it received and the success it attained, THE GREYHOUND is anxious to thank each and every contributor.

The complete list of the contributors to the Scholarship Fund will be found on page five of this issue.

Universities Committee Reports:

Loyola Faculty Views U. S. Security Council Membership

1. Possible Conflict with Sovereignty. The mere act of joining an international organization for the maintenance of peace does not necessarily involve a serious conflict with our concept of national "sovereignty," which we understand to mean "the plenitude of jurisdiction unlimited by any higher power in the same order." The order of which we speak is "civil society," in which there is no higher power than the State.

For States, in the exercise of their full power, to delegate to a "Security Council" the right to take specific measures for the maintenance of peace is indeed to limit the extent to which they may themselves exercise their sovereignty, but it is by no means a surrender of the plenitude of jurisdiction to a higher power in the same order. Sovereignty would be lost only by the creation of a "World State," which is not the intention at this time.

No Constitutional Conflict

2. Possible Conflict with the Constitution. According to the Constitution of the United States, problems of foreign affairs and international relations are problems within the sphere of the Federal Government and not reserved to State action. In their spheres Federal action can legally and effectively bind all of the States.

Hence, membership in the International Organization here contemplated does not come into conflict with the constitutional guarantees to the several States. As far as the separation of powers within the Federal Government is concerned, the proposed powers of the Security Council and of our Representative on that Council show no apparent violation of the Constitution.

Jurisdiction Limited

The Council would have no jurisdiction over "situations or disputes arising out of matters which by international law are solely within the domestic jurisdiction of the State concerned." The size and character of the forces of the United States to be put at the disposal of our Representative are entirely in the power of the United States to determine, "subject . . . to ratification by the signatory states in accordance with their constitutional processes."

There is no question of the "declaration of war" or of the making of "treaties," these matters being left to the regular constitutional processes of the States composing the international organization. War would still be declared by the United States through its Congress; treaties would still be made with the consent of two-thirds of the Senators present and voting.

Whatever delegation of legislative power to the executive department might be implied in the creation of the position of Representative to the Security Council, such a procedure would be constitutional so long as the powers of the new office were clearly defined and limited by the Congress in the actual delegation of such powers.

Participation Precarious

It is recognized, however, that there would be a constitutional obstacle to full and effective membership on the part of the United States, once we did join the organization. According to present constitutional law, any Treaty or Act of Congress can nullify any previous Treaty or Act. Hence, after we have joined, our membership could at any time be made null by a subsequent act of Congress.

After placing at the disposal of our Representative on the Security Council certain definite forces, the Congress would still have the power, even at a most critical moment in international developments, to withdraw by a subsequent act, all or part of these forces and render our participation impossible. This admittedly makes our participation precarious.

Others Similar To Us

However, the exact same situation prevails in the other countries who are to be members of the international organization. Our constitutional situation places us on exactly the same plane and in exactly the same position as the other powers.

While it was suggested that this could be corrected by an Amendment denying the Congress such power for the duration of our membership, it was felt that, in view of the position of the other States and the general uncertainty as to the future of the international organization, such action to limit ourselves where other States would not be similarly limited would be most unwise.

Treaty Imperative

3. Membership Through Treaty with Senate Approval. It was the opinion of the Committee that the solemn and serious character of the step contemplated: membership in a world organization for the maintenance of peace, demands the use of what is, in spite of the fact of other possible usages, still the most solemn and serious form of international compact—a Treaty.

It is further held that the presentation of this question in treaty form for ratification by the Senate under the present two-thirds rule would receive the necessary number of votes without serious difficulty. The question is not being presented to the Senate as a fait accompli, but has been worked out with due deference to Senate opinion.

The Senate itself has previously shown its approval of the principle of such an organization. And the political composition of the present Senate favors the acceptance by that body of a plan that comes with the sanction and approval of the President. The Treaty method should by all means be used, and the necessary two-thirds approval by the Senate seems reasonably certain.

Alternate Method

4. Membership Through Executive Order with Congressional Majority. The Committee has stated above its absolute preference for the Treaty method. However, membership in the international organization is deemed so important and vital to world peace that, if the Treaty method were to be impossible, entrance by this alternate method would be approved. The Committee does not see it as actually unconstitutional, but recognizes

Coffay Finds Enlarging Photos Pays Dividends

They say that the happiest men in the world are those who get paid for doing what they like. If there is any truth in this, we certainly have at least one happy student here at Loyola. He is Sophomore Paul Coffay who is making a little business of his hobby—the enlarging of pictures.

Paul receives the negatives of their favorite snapshots from his fellow students and turns them into large pictures suitable for framing; and at a very reasonable fee!

Speaking of the business, Paul says, "At first I just enlarged my own pictures, and then those of my close friends. Then one day one of the fellows asked me to do a picture for him. I was a little afraid at first for I thought my work wouldn't please him. But my fears were unwarranted, and requests from others came so fast that I had to impose a small fee to defray the cost of materials."

Gift Started Hobby

Paul informed us that he has been studying photography for the past six years. His father started him on his hobby by giving him a camera as a present. It was not until just a year ago, however, that he became interested in enlarging.

"The one who put me on the beam of enlarging was a neighborhood pharmacist, Dr. F. B. Klein. While working for him as a fountain clerk, I had ample opportunity to see his equipment. The doctor is an ardent photography fan, and he was kind enough to invite me to his home one evening where I watched him print several enlargements. After that evening I made up my mind to try enlarging myself."

The next step was the purchase of an enlarger. Paul informs us that he received this as a Christmas present and then started in to learn the proper technique.

Initial Efforts Poor

"At first my efforts were pretty bad," confided Paul. "The pictures were extremely blurred and out of focus. I kept going to Doctor Klein for instructions and finally managed to do a good enlargement. After that, the process became child's play. Now I can enlarge a picture in about ten minutes."

Recently Paul remodeled part of his cellar and installed a table in it for his equipment. Now all his materials are within easy reach.

In speaking of his workshop, Paul says: "The table really isn't anything to speak of. I just took two barrels and laid two boards across them. You can readily realize that the table wouldn't take any prize for originality—but it surely is sturdy. Who knows, someday I may be able to afford a good one!"

Future Plans

As for the future, Paul has several hopes for his hobby. The main one is the possession of an expensive camera—resembling those used by professional photographers. Just now, Paul claims that his meager funds won't permit such a purchase.

"Something else that I look forward to doing is taking pictures in technicolor," he concluded. "After the war, scientific work should be able to progress to the point where colored films will be about the same price as the present day black and white films."

Filled with the traditional Yuletide spirit (not plural, please) and, as is customary, wishing to disperse joy and boundless happiness throughout this serene institution of learning, we offer these inconsequential bits of hearsay to the rabid thousands of hoipoloi who read these ravings. Duck! Here it comes . . .

MORBID MUTTERS AND MINOR MUMBLINGS:—Bob (I only read it five times) Hiltz has perfected quite a Delae-ing action on the morning freight . . . We hear that he is always ten minutes late, too . . . Uh-huh! . . . And Bill (I'm still for Dewey) Rogers ought to figure out the curves in Druid Hill Park by calculus . . . The question: Was he really lost or just a case of "Babes in the Woods"? . . . Ray (Never Again) Buchanan is modestly covering up his chivalry by claiming that his coat was stolen . . . Ever think it might be true?—Oh no!

WHERE ARE OUR CHILDREN?—Since George (I just LIVE at Rosewood) Medairy's Mary slipped on a bottle cap (milk) and broke her leg, he spent a quiet evening at home on prom night . . . Woo-woo . . . She and Bill ("The Leg") Hodges ought to get together . . . The "road's" night patrol usually consists of Fred (Termites) Hubbell and Art (Hat) Rhoads . . . Bill (See ya at the Clink) Cahill also seems to be a devotee of a different section . . . and ALL seem pleased . . . My, how travel broadens one, eh?

USELESS OCCUPATIONS:—Telling Dick (It's psychological) Kemp to stop his Gregorian solos in the shower room . . . Bockstie's "Don't cuss" campaign aimed at George (D-Day) Bardelman in physics lab . . . Beating some of the 'pups' in pool . . . for further details see Bill (Kiss and Tell) Ehorst.

PRE-NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS:—By Joe (I got troubles) Gessler: Not to read any more telegrams . . . By Sid (Pop's O.K.) Roche: To have the greens in Baltimore fixed up like those on the Philadelphia golf links . . . By Charlie (We had a banquet last night) Schmidt: Not to arrange dates at football games . . . By Charlie (But the trot says so) Seipp: To start a 'roll your own' movement . . . By Dan (It's O.K. but it makes me itch) Feeney: To continue his work in Celeste-ial navigation.

MEN ABOUT TOWN:—Bill (Now in Chicago we had—) Connolly and John (I like Carols—especially at Christmas) Seifert seen at Pop's, Callis', Kreiger's, Wilhelm's etc., etc., etc. . . . Preston (Where's John again?) Scheffenacker with D'Arcy at Morgie's . . . Just about always . . . As is Nip (Seen Cahill) Funk at the Nibble . . . Sal (Solid) Cammarata at all the 'big' dances in the city.

CHRISTMAS LISTS (retrieved from the trash):—"Dear Santy: Please scare up a pair of eagles for a cute chick. Bob (Varsity—gosh) Longley" . . . —just a super-duper, bound not to miss, dope sheet,—Vern (I'll betcha) Dimarco" . . . and then, the most revealing of all:—"Please, Nick, a set of Tex Dawson, pearl handled six-shooters with diamond studded holsters"—and signed,—the Brinks B'hoys".

And now, since we see that the 25th is just around the corner, Ye Olde Watchdog rushes to the attic, kicks off the moths from the whiskers and Santa Claus suit, dusts off the mistle-toe and INTO THE BAG GOES:—A shiny new bow and arrow for Bill (Curly-Top) Seldon . . . A permit for Tony (I just like German—that's all) Ristaino to wear THE hat within fifty feet of inflammable mixtures . . . A big green press card for Frank (Save me a little) Cashen to shine among the 'amateurs' in this office . . . A five-decker ice cream cone for Bob (Ugh) Geraghty to look at during lunch period . . . And finally,—a nice brown suit, shoes, and accessories for John (Yes, I'm physically fit) Reilly and Stewart (They don't want me) Koehler.

And now,—the big 'woof' of the issue . . . That's right . . . Up until the last issue (and we fooled you there) there were TWO Watch DOGS. (They were NOT Charlie Meagher, or John Ahlers, or Bill Rogers soooo—Go ahead, apologize to them.) One was that famous trucking concern magnate—the "big deal" lad of L. C.—the "hot tip" boy of Oi' Hilltop—the Half Mile Track picket—That's it—Laurence Patrick (Mike) Molloy . . . And the other;—ah yes, . . . the only student who thought that I.R.C. conventions meant "Intoxicants Rapidly Consumed" . . . the "young boy" from the Westowne . . . the Watchdog who became a war dog . . . Who else but our own "Duke" . . . Henricum Eckhardt (Junioem) . . . And now that the new 'pup' (which ain't a hint) has been house broken with the last issue, here's his warning—Watch yourself during the holidays. Best of wishes and—I'll be seeing you—He-he!!! The Romans had a blurb for it—CAVE CANEM.

Sodality Union Plans Orphans Yuletide Party

The Sodality Union of Baltimore will present its annual Christmas party this Sunday, December 17, at Saint Elizabeth's Orphanage. At 7 p. m. Santa Claus will make his appearance and present gifts to the seventy-five boys and girls gathered in the assembly room.

Afterwards there will be ice cream, cake, and candy for the children. As an added entertainment, arrangements have been made with a well known magician to put on a special display of sleight-of-hand, which promises to make the evening a thoroughly enjoyable one.

Three Committees

General plans for this party were outlined and approved at a meeting of the Sodality Union on November 12. Three committees: entertainment, presents, and refreshment, were formed. The Sodality of Loyola was given charge of providing the entertainment for the party. Howard J. Strott, president of the Sodality, is the chairman of this committee.

Last year's party, the first one held by the Union for the orphans, was a complete success. Santa Claus was present, and refreshments were provided. The children were also entertained by a magician, who amused them with his tricks.

Three Members

The Sodality Union of Baltimore consists of three members: Notre Dame College of Maryland, Mount Saint Agnes Junior College and Loyola College. Johns Hopkins University was represented by the Newman Club in previous years, but it has not been active this year.

The meeting on November 12 was the second for the new year of the Sodality Union. Since Loyola is the only member operating during the summer, no meetings are held during this period.

ASN To Publish News Letter

Howard Strott, President of the Alpha Sigma Nu, announced that the active members of the honor society in the college will send a monthly news letter to the alumni members of the ASN. They will also forward the weekly editions of the Student Council News, which have appeared during that month.

Strott stated this action was taken to notify the members of all activities taking place at the college, thereby insuring a method of contacting the graduates.

Prom Climaxes Year's Dances

The annual Junior Prom of Loyola College, held in the gymnasium last Saturday night, was the outstanding social event of the year at Evergreen. Over one hundred couples attended the event which was combined with the annual Loyola Night.

Midnight Promenade

Laurence P. Molloy, president of the Junior Class, and Miss Florence Van Orman, the Prom Queen, led the traditional Midnight Junior Promenade. The climax of this was the presentation by Donald Giblin, president of the Student Body, of a coveted bouquet to Miss Van Orman.

The Favors were not revealed until the night of the Prom. Each consisted of a Gold Block "L" with a chain attached to a small pin on which was engraved the year '45.

Gratitude Expressed

The Prom committee wishes to express its gratitude to the following for contributing to the success of the Prom: Carl Hamilton and his band for their brilliant music; Mr. Hemmick of the Baltimore Stationery Company for planning such a beautiful program, and to Mr. Peerin of the Art Decorating Company for the decorations.

The College Poll:

Students Consider Radio Favorite Entertainment

By Robert E. Hiltz

Seventy per cent of the students of Loyola College favor the radio as a consistent means of entertainment while thirty per cent disagree. This was disclosed in a recent student poll conducted by THE GREYHOUND in connection with the National Federation of Catholic College Students.

A similar poll was conducted in many other colleges throughout the country to secure the average opinions of the college students with regard to general questions concerning the radio.

First Poll Question

The first question on the poll was: Do you favor the radio as a consistent means of entertainment? Seventy per cent answered yes, while thirty per cent voted no.

Question number two, along the same line, asked: Do you prefer the radio to books and literature as a usual method of entertainment. Although thirty-nine per cent voted against it, sixty-one per cent approved in a convincing manner. If the radio holds such a high position, the managers should endeavor to produce programs which are commensurate with its obligations and expectations.

Many professors will find an apparent answer to a pressing question of theirs in the response of the students to the third question. When asked: How many hours on the average do you listen to the radio each week, the students gave many varied times, from three-fourths of an hour to seventy-five hours a week. However, the average was twelve hours.

Comedy Shows Are Favorite

The fourth question asked the students to list in order their three favorite types of radio programs. The three most enjoyed are: Comedy Shows, followed very closely by Musical Programs, with Dramatic and Symphonic Programs tied for a more distant third. To clarify this, the results might be represented in the following ratio: 25 to 24 to 12.

The remaining programs ranked thus: mystery shows, sports programs, news and commentators, early morning programs, quiz shows, and serials.

Frequent Musical Programs

As a sequel to the above query, the poll next asked: Which of the above programs would you like to hear more frequently, which less frequently? Under the more frequently requested type were: Musicals, forty-eight per cent; Symphonies, twenty-one per cent; and Comedy, fourteen per cent. Emphatic disapproval was given Serial Programs as seventy per cent of all dislikes were directed against them. These were trailed by Quiz Shows, fourteen per cent, and Symphonies, twelve per cent.

With the increasing popularity of the singing commercial, the poll sounded the students opinion in this regard also, and the result revealed that fifty-eight per cent favored them, while forty-two per cent voted their dislike.

In response to the next question, sixty-eight per cent thought that television would not reduce the attendance of the public at the televised events.

Seventy-two per cent thought that Loyola College should sponsor a program, produced, directed, and acted by the students. However, the majority desired that a round table discussion of current problems of the world be broadcast once a week.

IRC Conferees Debate Current World Problems

The annual Middle Atlantic International Relations Conference was held at Marywood College, Scranton, Penna., on the week-end of Nov. 17-18. Doctor Doehler, Loyola's I.R.C. moderator, together with Howard Strott, William Ehorst, Gerard Connolly, Henry Eckhardt, William Rogers, Joseph Gessler, and Mannes Greenberg represented Evergreen.

Furious Debates

Among the most hotly debated topics was the "United Nations During the War and After." Most of the conferees were deeply interested in Russian policies and the discussion leader was constantly trying to remind them that there were other important items to discuss.

The Very Rev. Edward B. Bunn, S.J., remarked that such conventions of the I. R. C. have his heartiest commendation because they are a definite contribution to collegiate extra-curricular life and are a practical application of the principles of history and philosophy as taught here.

Future Discussions

In order to keep Maryland I. R. C. members interested and informed on the various current events, Doctor Doehler has announced that a discussion meeting would be held in the various colleges each month.

The first meeting is to be held on Sunday afternoon, January 14, at Notre Dame of Maryland, and the paper to be presented will deal with the International Organization Proposed by the Dumbarton Oaks Conference. Following this paper a discussion on the topic will take place.

Colleges Invited

College of Notre Dame of Md., Mt. St. Agnes Junior College, Goucher College, Towson State Teachers College, Mt. St. Joseph's College (Emmitsburg), Mt. St. Mary's College, Western Maryland College, University of Maryland, the Johns Hopkins University, and Loyola College, have been invited to attend the discussions.

ATTENTION!!

The Investment Banker is indispensable in raising the necessary capital for our Government, Industry and Railroads both in War and in Peace.

There is a great opportunity in this profession for intelligent ambitious young men who are really willing to work.

Our partners will be glad to discuss this with you now or when you return from the service.

Christmas Paradox

Surveying the pages of this Christmas issue of THE GREYHOUND, one finds expressed the universal wishes of Christmas: Peace on earth and good will to men. Yet while pondering on these sentiments we find that this Christmas of 1944 presents us with a unique paradox.

On the first page the reader will read the Christmas message of the President of Loyola, and also the account of the annual Christmas entertainment. On page six is printed the Yuletide greetings of the Moderator of Athletics. In brief, the whole tone of this issue, as is most proper, bespeaks the warm feeling of fraternity and spiritual consolation that is our heritage of Christmas.

And yet there is an anomaly here. All these messages are given at a time when this nation is plunged in war. Loyola College also has felt its profound effects, and to meet the challenge to our civilization sent forth almost one thousand of her sons to fight for the peace and freedom we so dearly cherish. These sons, reared in the ways of peace at Loyola, have not only had to take up the arms of war, but nineteen of them have had to make the supreme sacrifice.

The last issue of THE GREYHOUND was the service issue, and directly following it comes this Christmas issue. The two ideas are constantly opposed: even now we find in this issue, devoted to Christmas, the notice of the nineteenth alumnus of the College who has been killed in action.

Despite all these things, with every element of war and its effects, with the great number of Loyola men in the service, with the accelerated course, with the increasing number of students departing for the armed forces; we still find the reassuring tone of peace and peaceful activities permeating our College life.

We too are continuing the hallowed customs of Christmas. The Christmas messages, the traditional Christmas entertainment in the Library on this Sunday, the Christmas party for the colored orphans, all unite in giving expression to the spirit of the season. Loyola College is proud to have even a small part in this spirit.

We cannot conclude this editorial without expressing our sincere gratitude to all who have helped this paper in any way during 1944. We beg that the King of Kings will grant them rich blessings, and we wish them a glorious Christmas.

And to all alumni, fighting on the battlefronts of the world, we say: Blessed Christmas! God be with you, Men of Loyola.

Condolences

In the name of Loyola College, THE GREYHOUND conveys sincerest condolences to the parents and relatives of Sgt. Francis J. Dailey, Jr., ex. '45, USA, who was reported killed in action in Europe.

On behalf of the Faculty and the Student Body, THE GREYHOUND extends heartfelt condolences to Joseph Heinekamp, Jr., EXCHANGE EDITOR, on the death of his grandmother.

Goal Attained

More than a year ago THE GREYHOUND officials undertook to establish an $800.00 Scholarship fund for some needy student. The staff added its approval and enthusiasm, prepared to launch the venture, and set out to solicit the assistance of friends and alumni. This issue announces the completion of the projected goal.

Last Monday, the final donation was received which has made possible the college career of some needy student. Of the sixty contributors, thirty were officers in the armed services. Two who gave the highest amounts never attended Loyola College.

THE GREYHOUND has privately acknowledged each contribution, and takes this means of publicly expressing its gratitude to all who so generously cooperated. The complete list of the donors appears on page five.

European Hospital

Dear Father Gibbons:

As you probably realize, overseas mail is not the fastest thing in the world, for it was only the other day that I received your letter of June, 1944

I had the misfortune to stop a little enemy lead in my left leg, and I am taking it easy at present. It takes more than this to keep an old Greyhound down, so I should be up and around before too long.

How is everything progressing out Evergreen way these days? Just as smooth as usual, I hope, with another championship basketball team on the way.

Thank you very much, Father, for your personal interest.

Best of luck,

Walter A. Cummings, '40, 2nd Lt. USA.

Somewhere in France

Dear Father Gibbons:

Forgive me for not writing sooner. However, since I've been here in France, I haven't had a lot of time to do much except to attend to G.I. affairs.

"Yours Truly" has been a rather busy little number. I can't help but look back with longing to the days when I was a happy, carefree, little Exchange Editor.

Even here, the Jesuit influence is felt. In a town nearby, there is a rather large Jesuit College. Now and then I have chats with some of the students—those who are not in the Army or in German concentration camps. Apparently the "cut" system is unknown here. I was telling them of its marvels and, I hope, sowing discord in their innocent little hearts. Incidentally, I gave one of the Professors a pack of cigarettes—something he hasn't seen in four years. He was too, too, grateful. Had I been in his class, he would certainly have passed me for at least two semesters.

I trust that THE GREYHOUND is coming along well, and that the Scholarship Fund is better than ever. I'd give my right arm to be in THE GREYHOUND office now.

Are the Adult classes still in session? When I return, I hope to see the Schools of Medicine, Engineering, and Law, going at top speed.

Give my best to everyone, and please remember me in your prayers.

As ever,

Pvt. John "Pinkus" Williams, '44, USA

Dear Sir:

I received your August 10 issue through the courtesy of Frank Whittle—one of Loyola's students. It is a fine college publication, so may I congratulate all responsible for it.

Although I never attended Loyola, I was very interested to read about my former friends: Barney Goldberg, Franny Mueller, and many others. On the other hand, the death notice of Fred Cook caused me the sorrow which attends the departure of a young friend. He was a fine man, and I am sure an exceptional soldier.

Have had a rough siege of rainy weather, and now it is turning cold. In closing let me wish both the faculty and the student body a healthy and successful year.

Sincerely,

Maj. Coleman M. Anderson

Big Business

Laurence P. Molloy, trouble shooter for the Junior Prom, and his fellow-henchmen made themselves rather obnoxious during the two weeks preceding the Junior Prom. Every student in the College tried to hide under the desks when the "b'hoys" appeared. Then this Committee headed by the tycoon himself would corner the hapless student—and very painfully extract from his thin purse the sum of fifty cents which would insure the listing of his name as a patron of the Prom. Sly Molloy would then add in a low whisper—"And for fifty cents more, bub, we'll add your girl's name!" Nice of Laurence (P. for Precious), wasn't it?

Little Business

Lawrence "Burbank" Bockstie, who can spot a tea-rose at sixty furlongs even against the wind, reached the anticlimax of his career some years ago. Bockstie was telling his enthralled listeners about his prize petunias that won first place in the Amateur Petunia Growers Contest of Baltimore, when one naive freshman popped up with, "Have you ever raised a 'Mel-Rose', Lawrence?" The great Bockstie was perplexed and silent. For the next three years he sought in vain the answer to this problem, and he inquired of all his friends the "awe important" question:—"What is a Mel-Rose?"

Oh, come now, Lawrence!!!

Advice to the Lovelorn

Dear Fifth Column:

I am a handsome young fellow of the class of '46. I never knew very many girls, and have never had a date. Can you give me the name of someone who can introduce me to some homely girls? Not handsome, for I'm very bashful—just homely.

Many thanks,

Dear "Bashful":

Dear Fifth Column:

I had a very pretty black and white cat, but I have not been able to find it for the past two weeks. As I love the little Manx very much, I should like to find it. Can you help me?

Sincerely,

Dear "Heartbroken":

See Sid "Buster" Roche. He knows a boy who used to crucify a cat every afternoon after tea.

Dean Announces Two Quarter Honor Lists

The following students have been placed on the "Dean's List of Distinguished Students" for the second quarter ending October 10:

Senior: Dodd S. Carr.

Juniors: Lawrence G. Bockstie, Jr., Jerry M. Cohen, E. Cuyler Jackson, William A. Meyer, Jr., Henry H. Startzman, Howard J. Strott.

For the third quarter, beginning October 23 and extending through to November 29, the following students were also placed on the Dean's List:

Seniors: Dodd S. Carr, Robert E. Maizell, Unto V. Erkkila.

Juniors: Lawrence G. Bockstie, Jr., Jerry M. Cohen, William A. Meyer, Jr., George Spiegel, Howard J. Strott.

Freshmen: Louis A. Fritz, Mannes F. Greenberg, Thomas L. Lalley.

Freshmen B: Charles J. Stine.

In order to be eligible for the Dean's List, a student must obtain an average of 85 percent or over in each of his subjects.

The list was read out by Father Joseph A. d'In villiers, the Dean, at the third quarterly assembly in the Library. At this assembly, Fr. d'In villiers read out the names of all those who had merited an honor card in one or more subjects.

Honors are given only to those who have obtained a grade of 95 or over in one subject.

After the presentation of honors, Fr. d'In villiers gave a brief talk to the assembled student body.

Three Opinions

On the question of the necessity of Amendment, one group was entirely opposed to such action as unnecessary. A second group saw the desirability of change, but could not find compelling reasons for taking the step. Still another group was quite convinced of the importance and necessity of the Amendment.

Opposition to Amendment was based upon argument that the calibre of the Senator as compared with the Congressman make him better fitted as a judge of such questions, and that the wisdom of the Found-

Jesuit Deans Shape Veterans Education

A meeting of the Deans of the Jesuit colleges and high schools of the Maryland Province to discuss the question of Veterans Education was held in the Faculty House at Loyola college on November 18.

The meeting was called by the Very Rev. Edward B. Bunn, Rector of Loyola College and prefect General of Studies in Jesuit colleges of the Maryland Province, and the Rev. Joseph C. Glose, Prefect General of Studies in Jesuit high schools.

Representatives Listed

The following Deans of Jesuit colleges were present: the Rev. Stephen F. McNamee of Georgetown University; the Rev. Thomas I. O'Malley of St. Joseph's College; the Rev. Edward G. Jacklin of Scranton University; the Rev.

Joseph A. d'In villiers of Loyola College; and the Rev. Joseph K. Drane, Dean of Freshmen at Loyola.

Jesuit high school Deans present were: the Rev. Robert P. Arthur of Georgetown Preparatory School; the Rev. John A. Convery of Loyola High School; the Rev. Francis E. Garner of Gonzaga High School; and the Rev. Michael F. Maher of Scranton High School.

After the high school and college Deans had held separate meetings in the morning, a joint meeting was held, at which the following decisions were made:

1. Returning veterans who have completed three years of a standard academic high school course, and have earned twelve units with a good average in each course, will be permitted to complete their high school work in college. Students from Jesuit high schools, after they have completed in college sufficient work to meet the high school graduation requirements in the state in which their high school is located, will receive diplomas from these schools.

Advisory Committee

2. An advisory committee in each college will be appointed to administer the Veterans Program.

3. Returning veterans should be required to do as much as possible of the Philosophy and Religion courses. If accepted as a senior, the student will be required to complete Ethics, Natural Theology, Psychology, and the regular Senior Religion course.

4. When the number of applicants warrants it, veterans will be accepted two or three times during the scholastic year.

Special Credits

5. Informal and formal courses taken while in the armed forces will be evaluated for credit according to the standards of the United States Armed Forces Institute.

6. A plan for accelerating the normal four-year program into three for the benefit of the veterans was proposed, and referred to the Deans for study. Action on this measure will be taken at a future meeting.

News In Brief

Ensign Leon Greenbaum, ex. '44, arrived home to visit his Alma Mater. He was commissioned last Spring, and after his present stay will go on to Jacksonville, Florida, to join a heavy bomber squadron. While attending Loyola, Ensign Greenbaum was a member of the swimming team which won the Mason-Dixon championship.

Pvt. Jerry Mack, ex. '46, recently transferred from the Infantry to the Tank Destroyers, was home on a seven day leave from Camp Hood, Texas. He will return for a twelve week cycle of specialized training which will equip him as a Tank Destroyer crewman.

Pvt. Joseph Thaler, ex. '45, visited Evergreen quite frequently during his ten day furlough last week. While attending the college, he played on the tennis team and the B squad basketball team.

Pvt. Paul Boggs, ex. '45; Pvt. Alban Eagers, ex. '45; and Pvt. Bernard Morenz, ex. '45, recently visited the campus after completing their basic training.

Thomas Gisriel, ex. '45, seaman first class in the Naval Reserve, is now attending the College of the Ozarks in Clarksville, Arkansas, taking secondary radio technician training. Seaman Gisriel is a former member of THE GREYHOUND sports staff, and he played at center for the Hound quintet last year.

Pvt. Michael B. Sullivan, ex. '43, is now stationed at Camp Holabird, Maryland. After completing his basic training, he was sent to the camp as radio repairman in the signal depot. After matriculating here he was the treasurer of the Student Council and also a member of THE GREYHOUND staff.

Second Lieutenant Germanus J. France, '41, was recently graduated in the fourteenth bombardier class from the Victorville Army Air Field, a station in the AAF Training Command.

Lt. (j.g.) Francis J. Mueller, USNR, '43, visited the campus two weeks ago. He just returned from the European theatre of war. Lt. Mueller participated in plenty of action in the Mediterranean theatre of war, and he described the disastrous effects of the V-1 bomb on England. At Loyola he was a champion hitter on the baseball team for three years, and played basketball. He also organized the Block L Club, and was on the news staff of THE GREYHOUND.

Block L Provides Membership Cards

Twenty-four members of the present Student Body have qualified as members of the Loyola Block L Club and have received membership cards. These cards were distributed during the first week of November.

The club, which has recently been remodeled by A. A. president Tim Parr, welcomes any member of the school who has earned a letter in sports.

One dollar admittance fee was paid by all who qualified for membership, and twenty-five cents will be paid for each succeeding year that the individual remains a student at the college. Upon graduating, the student automatically becomes a life member.

Running With The Hounds

By Frank Cashen

The '44-'45 basketball season is now well on its way, as far as the followers of the Greyhounds are concerned. With four big games under their belt, we look for the Hounds to improve with each contest.

In Gallaudet, the Hounds met a formidable opponent, and we can look for plenty of trouble from the Silents in the all-important Mason-Dixon Conference play-offs.

Let's look at the other conference teams. Mt. St. Mary's, the defending champs, have not shown their hand. Gone are the stars of last year's championship squad, and in their places are V-12 trainees from the surrounding Middle Atlantic States. The only talent we can foresee for the Hopkins squad will be drawn from high schools and thus the team must remain an unknown quantity.

Last year American University placed several Navy trainees on their squad, and if they follow the same procedure this year the Eagles may prove the surprise team of the league. Last year the Eagles came up with a well-coached squad and possessed variable talent; they might have caused plenty of trouble in the play-offs, but lost the service of their tall center, Jack Hettings, and dropped a close one to Mt. St. Mary's.

Delaware was hit hard by the draft, but you can always look for the Hens to put together a scrappy aggregation. The rest of the teams in the conference remain a question mark.

Loyola should be able to hold its own against anything in the conference, provided the team gets a few breaks. If Sal Cammarata isn't drafted; if George Bardelman's heart holds out; if Sid Roche's knee improves; and if Rip Roberts can make the jump to collegiate ball, the team will easily make the grade. So you rooters who believe in Santa Claus better get busy and tell him what the boys out at Evergreen want for Christmas.

Cammarata may go any time after the 20th of this month. This would be a serious loss to the team, as the agile, heady kid from East Baltimore is the sparkplug of the quintet.

Sal didn't play much in high school, and his first actual experience came last year. He made the varsity squad as a freshman and saw service in every game. Lefty thought highly of Sal, and predicted that he would turn into a great little ballplayer.

On the second string we like Bob Longley and Bill Cahill. Longley, with plenty of height and plenty of courage, has proved himself an effective man on the backboard and his skill in caging rebounds cannot be overlooked. Cahill knows how to put his 202 pounds to advantage when he goes after that ball and, although a trifle on the chubby side, he has more speed than he is usually credited with.

* * * *

With the inauguration of the new basketball campaign, the season books went on sale. This year the books entitle the holder to admission to twelve home games, and the cost of the books is comparatively small: two dollars and ten cents.

To any mathematical student this small sum breaks down to the unbelievable price of seventeen and one-half cents per evening. Since there are two games, the preliminary tussle of the B Squad and then the main battle of the Hounds, the cost per game boils down to eight and three quarter pennies.

However, to the rabid Loyola fan, cost is nothing. The team will receive the enthusiastic support of the students. We will all be at the gym tomorrow night to cheer our team to a decisive victory over Johns Hopkins.

A Merry Christmas and A Happy New Year

The Athletic Department wishes you the best of Season Greetings and a very Merry Christmas

Christmas this year should be a time for prayer. Complete victory and the consequential peace can be achieved only by a closer union with the Christ Child. Let us pray to Christ, therefore, to bring a quick and lasting peace.

Aggies Capture Mural Crown Crushing Foreigners, 13 - 6

Ayd's Aggies captured the 1944 intramural touch football championship, conquering the Fighting Foreigners, 13-6. The game climaxed the regular playoffs between the top four teams of the intramural league.

The Foreigners scored first when George Medairy flipped a pass to Stew Koehler in the end zone, and at halftime held a 6-0 advantage. After playing inconsistent ball in the first half, the Aggies came roaring back in the final stanza to score twice.

Score Twice In Final Half

Sid Roche hit Sal Cammarata on the goal line with a short pass and Cammarata stepped over. Dan Feeney chucked a pass to Frank Cashen for the extra point.

From here on the Aggies sought to protect their lead, kicking on third downs and running the ball on the offense. Twice the Aggies broke a runner loose, and with the aid of some vicious down-field blocking reeled off large gains.

Lou Franz, captain of the Aggies, set the the second touchdown when he intercepted a pass and went from his own goal line to the midfield stripe before being downed. Three short passes failed to gain, and on the fourth down Cammarata faded back and threw a long pass to Roche in the end zone. Roche came out of a mass of players to nab the pass and insure victory for the Aggies.

Semi-Final Contests

In the semi-final contests, the Aggies downed the Gophers, 18-6, and the Fighting Foreigners upset the Mad Scientists, 13-12. Pete Kelly threw the first touchdown pass for the Foreigners, and Bill Taylor was on the receiving end; a pass, Medairy to Taylor was good for the extra point which proved to be the winning margin.

Late in the last quarter, the Foreigners came from behind to score the winning touchdown when George Medairy grabbed a short pass and went over for the score.

Scientists Tally Twice

The Scientists sandwiched two touchdowns in between the Foreigners' scores, but they were unable to make good on the extra points.

In the other semi-final contest, the Gophers lost to Ayd's Aggies, 18-6. The Aggies had too many long passes for the Gophers, scoring all their points via the air lanes. Roche found Lou Franz open in the initial frame and chucked him a pass that was good for a touchdown. Vince Bagli accounted for the other two markers on passes from Roche.

The Ayd's Aggies squad consisted of the following: Lou Franz, Sal Cammarata, Dan Feeney, George Edwards, Sid Roche, Frank Cashen, and Jerry Cohen.

With big Sid Roche showing the way, Loyola College hung up its first Mason-Dixon Conference victory, as the Greyhounds defeated Gallaudet's Blue Bisons, 50-47, in a thrilling overtime clash.

The Green and Gray came from behind in the final half, and with less than thirty seconds remaining in the game, Roche ruffled the cords from the middle of the floor to tie the game up and carry Gallaudet into the five minute overtime period.

Roche High Scorer

Roche contributed twenty-one points during the contest, seven of these coming in the all important overtime period. He got two baskets from close in, made the third from outside, and added the seventh point on a foul toss.

The Bisons put a tall experienced quintet on the floor, and the Blue team lost little time in running up a lead. The Hounds fought back, keeping within a few points of Gallaudet but never able to assume a lead. At the half Gallaudet led, 27-21.

Hounds Tie Score

A rejuvenated Greyhound team took the floor in the second half and tied the score before the Bisons could make a point. From this point it was nip-and-tuck with the Washingtonians taking the lead 43-41 with less than a minute to go. But Roche's long shot tied the game up and forced the two teams into the overtime period.

Villanova Topples Greyhounds, 49-28

The Greyhounds traveled to Villanova for their second encounter of the year, and came out on the short end of a 49-28 count. The Wildcats had too much speed and experience for the hapless Hounds, and outclassed them in every department of the game.

Joe Walters, veteran of last year's Villanova five, and captain of this year's quintet, paced the Philadelphians as he chalked up nineteen points. The Wildcats assumed an early lead and at halftime led, 23-9.

Loyola fought back in the concluding half but was unable to catch the fast moving Villanova team. Sal Cammarata led the Greyhound attack, dropping three field goals and making good on six foul shots, for a total of twelve points. Ralph Sybert and George Bardelman contributed four points apiece.

Loyola Tests Jay Quintet

The Greyhounds will go in quest of their second straight Mason-Dixon Conference victory tomorrow night when they face Johns Hopkins University in the Loyola gymnasium at 9:15 p. m. A win for the Green and Gray would give them undisputed possession of first place in the conference standings.

The Blue Jays lost all but one of last year's starting quint; Joe Bonura being the only holdover. Hamilton Bishop is one of the mainstays of the squad and a top-notch defensive player. "Reds" Wagner, a former high school star, is also with the Jays and, though diminutive, possesses a keen eye for the basket. Al Loreck, a member of the varsity last season, also may prove dangerous.

The Hounds will look to Sid Roche and Sal Cammarata for most of their offensive strength, plus the defensive play of George Bardelman.

On defense, the Blue Jays will probably use a four man sliding zone, with the fifth man, probably Bishop, guarding Roche. Loyola is expected to switch on the defense from man-to-man to a zone, and will probably use a fast break in order to break up the Hopkins' zone.

Holdovers Head Strong B Squad

The B squad this year should have a much brighter record than that of last year. Aided by the return of several veterans and bolstered by players from various high schools, a formidable quintet should take the floor.

Returning Veterans

Frank Cashen, an adept one hand shot and a hold-over from last year, is expected to have a successful season. Ed Fleishman, also a veteran of last year, looked good in pre-season practice. Don Giblin's services will be available.

Bill Seldon, a product of Loyola High, should control one of the pivot slots for he is an even six feet and handles himself well on rebounds.

Paul Muth is expected to occupy the other pivot position and he and Seldon should make a valuable combination.

Fast Breaking Offense

Charles Funk and John Mudd, both of Towson Catholic, round out the squad. Both are clever floormen and can be relied upon for some fancy ball handling. The team will probably use a fast breaking offense and a man-for-man defense.

Each of these players from this scrappy aggregation may be called upon to fill in at a varsity post.

MEMORIALS

A. A. President Enters Service

Tim Parr, popular president of the Athletic Association, Greyhound baseball twirler, and a mainstay on last year's B-squad quintet, was inducted into the service on December 1. He entered Loyola in September, 1942, from Mt. Saint Joseph's High School.

Parr was chosen as President of the A. A. in the elections held last July. At once he began a reconstruction of the Block L Club, featured by the distribution of the New Block L membership cards. Since his freshman year Tim bolstered the varsity baseball team as an effective hurler.

His interests did not end in sports, however, as he was active in the Glee Club, the Chemistry Club and the Yearbook staff. For two years he has worked in the Sports Department of THE GREYHOUND.

Coach Picks Varsity Five

Faced with their usual severe schedule, the 1944 edition of the Greyhound basketball squad made its initial appearance last week and has now weathered four games. At this writing, a ten-man squad has been definitely selected to represent the Green and Gray.

Three members of the squad have had previous collegiate experience, three have had some high school background, and the rest are comparative newcomers to the hardwood sport.

Holdovers

To the former class belong Sal Cammarata, Jerry Cohen and Sid Roche. Cammarata and Cohen were members of last year's Loyola College squad, and Roche saw service with Temple University.

Ralph Sybert, George Bardelman, Bill Cahill played basketball while in high school. Sybert had two years of varsity experience at Loyola High, and Bardelman had three years at the same institution. Bardelman was one of the mainstays on the Loyola championship squad of two years ago. Cahill played for Towson Catholic High School.

Bill Roberts, Paul Harris, Tom Gorman, and Bob Longley round out the squad.

Starting Team

The starting team is made up of Cammarata, Bardelman, Sybert, Roberts and Roche. Roberts and Roche, both of whom stand six feet two inches, will operate on the inside or pivot spots. Cammarata, Bardelman and Sybert, all apt ball-handlers, will operate from the outside. The trio has worked very well in the weave and all are fast.

Bardelman is probably the best floor man on the squad while Roche has the best eye for the basket.

Should Cammarata be taken into the service, Jerry Cohen, one of the holdovers from last year's squad, is prepared for action. Cohen is a speed merchant, and has an effective break away lay-up shot.

Second String

Paul Harris and Tommy Gorman were both three-lettermen in high school but neither has had any previous experience in basketball. Both are tall and aggressive, and fit in well with the Hounds' present system of play.

Bob Longley looks good under the basket and employs his six foot four inch frame to advantage. The tallest man on the squad, Bob needs a little experience to make him a standout.

Night Baseball Made Possible In New Guinea

How Yank ingenuity made night baseball possible in the heart of the New Guinea jungles, has been revealed by sportswriter Lou O'Neill in the Long Island Daily Star.

Taking advantage of widespread interest in the game, anti-aircraft battalions of the area formed a league. A field was cleared within four days, with subsequent improvements, and one of the team describes it as "almost as good as the diamonds back home."

Used Coconut Trees

All the day games scheduled could not be worked in, so the only solution was to provide enough light for night ball. Putting to work materials and equipment available, the soldiers made twelve coconut trees into poles fifty feet high, and installed them around the field.

They then placed sixty-inch arc searchlights, of the 800 million candlepower variety used in the anti-aircraft defense, twelve feet from the bottom of the poles. They directed the light upward on white board reflectors, twenty feet square and mounted at the tops of the poles. Four 750 watt floodlights supplement the illumination around home plate.

Glare Eliminated

The field has not quite enough light around second base, but this is understandable. Indirect lighting scatters the light so widely that concentration on distant areas is impossible. However, glare has been eliminated and visibility is probably very good even though illumination levels are not as high as that used on fields in the United States. The workers are deserving of compliments for both their engineering and ingenuity.

That the New Guinea jungle field is worth the man-hours and materials put into it, is attested by this first-hand report of an official at the base:

"The New Guinea field is worth ten times the man-hours it took to build, not only for the physical fitness, recreation, and sportsmanship it has brought, but also because it has boosted morale one hundred per cent."

Night softball, touch football, and track meets are on the program for the near future.

Mural Basketeers Inaugurate Season

With the successful completion of the intramural football season, intramural basketball comes to the fore. Plans are being worked out for a league which should get under way right after the Christmas holidays.

Teams will consist of not more than seven members; and the names of the members of the teams should be handed to the President of the Athletic Association.

The games will be played during lunch periods, physical training periods, and after school. All games will be played in the school gymnasium, and medals will be presented to all members of the victorious team.

The league will run until early March, at which time the playoffs will take place between the top four teams of the league.

Lt. McDonough Excelled In Basketball, Soccer

by Tim Parr

Lieutenant Francis J. McDonough, USAAF, '42, who had previously been announced as missing in action last year, has officially been declared dead by the War Department.

A true Loyola sportsman, Franny, as he was affectionately known by his teammates, was a star on the basketball court as well as on the soccer pitch. He climaxed four brilliant years of athletics at Loyola by playing on and coaching the soccer team; and playing for the Green and

Lt. Francis J. McDonough, USAAF

Gray Mason-Dixon Conference championship basketball squad. Under his tutelage the soccer team closed their season with four wins against a single defeat, and came within a few percentage points of taking the state championship.

Basketball Genius

Few will forget his play on the basketball court. Participating in over seventy-five varsity games, he left an enviable record. Although not geared to run up high individual scores, he was, nevertheless, an effective shot. And those who have seen him in action on the hardwood emphasized that on defense Franny was supreme.

The system of Lefty Reitz was built around a short range offense with an unusually strong defense. This is the reason that the Greyhounds never ran up extremely high scores, although the opposition found themselves helpless. With rangy boys like Ed Barczak and Franny McDonough playing in the guard positions, very few of the opposing players were able to cut through the center to make effective lay-up shots.

There was a certain rhythm about the way Franny handled the ball. He seemed to have a certain air of confidence; he knew his duty; and he could be counted upon to give the Hounds his best. "Mac" had excellent coordination of mind and body and always seemed to know what to do and when to do it.

Enlists In Air Corps

In the fall of 1941, Franny underwent an appendectomy. He missed the December basketball schedule entirely and it seemed as if he would be sidelined for the season. Enlisting in the Air Corps, he was scheduled to leave in February.

It wasn't long before McDonough was working out with the basketball team again, and finally news came from Washington that he would remain in school until March. He ended his career at Loyola on a brilliant note, as the Hounds brought home the Mason-Dixon Conference championship.

ALUMNI DOINGS

By Edward A. Doehler, '30

Alumnus Represents Loyola at DePaul

On the occasion of the inauguration of the new President of DePaul University, the Very Rev. Comeford Joseph O'Malley, C. M., S. T. D., in Chicago, Illinois, on December 2, Loyola College was ably represented by an Alumnus, Dr. Bernard L. Evering, '30. Besides participating in the academic procession that marked the occasion, Dr. Evering also presented a formal testimonial of felicitations from the President and Faculty of Loyola College to the New President of DePaul.

Dr. Evering, an honor graduate of the Class of '30, participated in the public philosophical disputation while in his Senior Year at Evergreen. His graduate studies were made at the Johns Hopkins University and at Heidelberg. Dr. Evering received his Degree of Doctor of Philosophy in Chemistry in 1934, and is at present engaged in research for the Standard Oil Company at Whiting, Indiana.

Alumnus Honored by Life Underwriters

An unusual distinction has recently been conferred upon J. Lacy Bradley, '21, by the the American College of Life Underwriters. According to the formal announcement of the above institution, the professional designation of Chartered Life Underwriter—C. L. U., was conferred on Mr. Bradley on September 14, 1944.

Mr. Bradley, an active member of the Alumni Association since his graduation in 1921, was recently elected to a three year term as a Director of the Association.

Recent Marriages Among Service Alumni

It is impossible for "Alumni Doings" to keep track of all of its members, and to acknowledge each ringing of the wedding bells. When we do receive notice of a wedding, however, we are most anxious to pass on the good news to the classmates of the groom, along with the very best wishes of the entire Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Averill Knapp announce the marriage of their daughter Estella, Lt. (j. g.) USNR, to Lt. Philip Aloysius Kernan, Jr., '38, USNR, on Monday, November 6, at Bethesda, Maryland.

Mrs. Helen Regina Lynch announces the marriage of her daughter, Mary Winifred, to Mr. Patrick Joseph Coughlin, '44, Ensign, USNR, on Wednesday, October 25, in St. Mary's Church, Govans, Baltimore, Maryland.

Alumni Retreat At Manresa

In spite of the inroads of war on the membership of the Association, the Annual Retreat at Manresa-on-Severn, December 1-4, was unusually well attended. The retreat, given this year by the Faculty Representative to the Association, the Rev. Thomas J. Higgins, S. J., professor of Ethics at Loyola, was attended by twenty-one members of the Alumni Association. This year, because of schedule difficulties, the members of the Senior Class at the College made their retreat with the Alumni, adding eleven members to swell the total.

Congratulations are in order for Tom Grogan, Bert Hoen, and Bob Bouchelle, to whom should go all of the credit for the fine turn-out obtained in spite of a global war and an Army-Navy Football game.

Reorganization of the Executive Committee

At a meeting held November 21, at Evergreen, President Conlon brought together the new Executive Committee of the Association for the Reorganization of that body and the forming of plans for the new year. In order that the members may know the men who are at present conducting the management of Alumni affairs, we give you the complete roster of the Committee as now constituted:

Besides the officers, President Charles Conlon, '06; Vice-Presidents, Anselm Sodaro, '31, and Jerome Egan, '32; the Directors who form the present committee are:

Term expires 1947: J. Lacy Bradley, '21
Lingard I. Whiteford, '27
James Manley, '41

Term expires 1946: Isaac S. George, '01
Frank M. Pilachowski, '40
John W. Farrell, '17

Term expires 1945: Robert B. Bouchelle, '30
A. Barthold Hoen, '18
George M. Brady, '00

The appointed officers named by the Committee at the November 21 meeting were: Michael F. Delea, '23, Treasurer; Robert B. Bouchelle, '30, Recording Secretary; and Edward A. Doehler, '30, Financial Secretary.

Army Develops Smoke Screen M-2 Generator

A portable mechanical smoke generator for use on jungle trails, mountain passes, and beach-heads is the newest device developed by the Chemical Warfare Service.

Small enough to be carried in the back seat of a jeep or other similar craft, when in use it can be concealed behind a bush or in a dug-out. With favorable wind conditions, this midget fog machine can blot out an area five miles long and about 200 yards wide.

Known As M-2

Known as the M-2 smoke generator, or the Besler, the device is no larger than a soldier's foot locker and weighs only 180 pounds when empty. It is about one-twentieth as bulky as the army's large M-1 smoke generator, and is truck or trailer driven.

The foxhole fog generator will not make the M-1 obsolete. While the small generator moves into the front lines, producing half as much smoke as its big brother, the larger machine will continue to send clouds of mild white smoke around airfields, seaports, cities, and permanent large installations.

Carried By Two Men

The new generator is thirty-four inches long, twenty-three inches high, and twenty inches wide, and it can be carried in stretcher fashion by two men.

The device consists of a miniature metal boiler, an air blower, and a small gear pump, all operated by a one cylinder gasoline motor made of aluminum. It can smoke in forty seconds from a cold start.

The M-2 smoke generator is completely automatic in operation, and there are no attachments to the machine. The smoke is not harmful, and is of no discomfort to the troops operating it.

I.S.O. Orders First Reprint

THE GREYHOUND has been presenting the views of the Loyola faculty on problems connected with the peace.

In the September issue a discussion of United States Relations with the Soviet Union appeared. One week later a letter was received, from the Institute of Social Order in New York City, requesting 250 additional copies of this article. This was the first request in the history of THE GREYHOUND for a reprint of any article.

World Council

this group considered to be extremely dangerous.

Majority Vote Favored

The majority of the Committee seemed to favor as most desirable the proposal that ratification be by a majority vote of the Senate and a majority vote of the House of Representatives, without being able to agree whether this majority should be counted on the basis of total membership or the number of those present and voting.

Haste Depreciated

In either case this method seemed to satisfy the general desire for a brake on hasty action (through the requirement of a majority of the States in the Senate, and a majority of the representatives of population units in the House), and the demand for a method that would reflect more closely the representative will of the majority of the population on the basis of equal counting of equal votes (by requiring the approval of a majority in the House).

Sophs Schedule Gilbert's Band For Jan. 13 Hop

The Sophomore Class will hold its annual Sophomore Hop on Saturday, January 13, 1945, in the college gymnasium, from 9 till 1. Johnny Gilbert and his Orchestra were contacted to offer the music. The dance will be informal, and the price of the tickets is $1.80 per couple.

First Performance At Loyola

This is the first time that Johnny Gilbert and his Orchestra have ever performed at any of the college dances. The band is well known for its regular performances at the Colonial Stables.

For two weeks, the Dance Committee, headed by George Bardelman, President of the Sophomore Class, has been at work making all necessary arrangements. Already the tickets have been printed, and will go on sale next week. Though informal, the dance will be held cabaret style in the decorated gymnasium.

Committee Members

The other members of the Dance Committee are: William Rogers, Paul Muth, Charles Schmidt, John Ahlers, Paul Coffay, Joseph Bronushas, Robert Hiltz, and James MacDonald.

In addition to students of the College and their friends, all alumni of Loyola are invited to attend the dance. Mr. Bardelman stated that quite a number of alumni in the armed forces, now home on furlough, have purchased tickets for the dance.

Members of the College faculty and their friends will act as chaperones. Refreshments will be served, and the floor of the gymnasium will be in excellent condition for dancing.
